

Dear Nyasalanders,

Being in the UK very briefly in July 2024 seeing John Canham. John and his wife Jill, who was a very good tennis player and could well be remembered for that, lived in Nyasaland during the late fifties/early sixties. John was not in the Police, he was PWD, but someone might remember him. They had two children, Martin and Sarah, who were born there. John is very 'with it' and is happy to chat about Nyasaland days to anyone. He lost Jill a few years ago.

If anyone remembers him or would just like a chat with him they can message me via Nypol email (nyasa.police@gmail.com) and I will pass it on. He lives in Rowland's Castle in Hampshire and, surprisingly, his next door neighbour spent time in Malawi in the seventies - his name is Richard Brewer but I doubt any of our lot would know him given the time frame and that he wasn't police either.

Kind Regards,

Vanessa (Farmery)
